

FAQ for 4/4/19

The newest addition to our property (albeit a temporary one) is a giant pile of mulch. Some of that mulch has been spread around Bunny's place (with the enthusiastic help of the Nursery School children). The remaining mulch will eventually be carted away and used elsewhere, but, in the meantime, the enormous weight of the pile has caused some of the mulch to compost. As a result, the pile is generating steam, a phenomenon that was especially visible this past cold Tuesday morning. No need to worry – the mulch pile is not on fire – it's just generating some natural energy!

Speaking of energy, we are working with Dominion Resources to evaluate the lighting system in our current parking lot. If we can switch to installing LED lights on the poles, it will make for a brighter (and safer) lot that is more energy efficient and that will save us money, a positive change all around!
