

Next time you're at the synagogue, go to a window that faces the north side (the side closest to Kirby Court) and check out the building progress. After many weeks of watching machines appearing only to move dirt from place to place (which wasn't the case, of course, but it sure seemed that way), you can see footings and underpinnings and concrete. Can you tell where the classroom addition/clergy suite will be? Keep an eye on the space – soon you won't have to use your imagination!

The other change can be viewed from the comfort of your own home – the TRS website has been updated to include architectural sketches, the reasons why we need to build, these weekly postings, the latest presentation to the congregation on the building project, a list of the volunteers involved in the campaign and in the building project, and a compilation of photos that really show the progress! Go to www.templerodefshalom.org, scroll to the bottom of the home page (to “Building Project”) and click on the link that says “Learn more about the Building Project – click here”. If you have any suggestions for additional content, we're happy to hear ideas!

If you have any questions about the building project, feel free to email us at bptf@templerodefshalom.org
