

Weekly Update 8/22/19

This week's focus by the construction team was concrete and more concrete! There was even a point this past Monday when there were three different concrete trucks on site. The team finished the footings for the clergy/classroom addition and have formed the stem walls for the northwest corner of the new addition. In the picture above, you can see those walls AND, by looking at the metal rods with the orange tops, you can see the overall shape of the addition. Next time you're at the synagogue, make sure to look out a window in the Social Hall to see the progress – it's really fun to see the drawings coming to life!

You might wonder how concrete trucks can even navigate the terrain of our site, as the property between us and Kirby Court is quite steep and narrow. Check out this video to see the creative way our contractors are addressing the problem. Also, it's always fun to watch construction teams pour concrete! Enjoy!
