

Weekly Update 8/29/19

Every week, our dreams for the building get one step closer to being realized, and what was in our imagination is now becoming reality. Last week, we were looking at metal rods with orange tops to try and get a sense of the outline of the clergy/classroom addition. This week, the forms (wooden walls that serve as the mold for the concrete) are in place, ready for the concrete to be poured. In other words, they show us the exact footprint of the new building! Meanwhile, check out the latest rendering of the small sanctuary (pictured below) that's now on the bottom left of the home page of the temple website. The new rendering includes the chairs that we have chosen, and the representation of the ceiling is more accurate. I am super excited to be in that space, aren't you?
