

What a difference a week makes in the life of our new Small Sanctuary! The picture above is what we shared with you last week. The following picture is from Monday:

The walls grow every day, so if you are at temple, be sure to check out the status of the project. Meanwhile, the photo below shows the workers setting up the walkway that will lead to the new Small Sanctuary. After the photo was taken, the concrete was poured, and it looks like a real path. The daily progress is so marked, it almost leaves one breathless!
