

Weekly Update 2.6.2020

There was some exciting building progress this week! The work continued on the HVAC system and the roof replacement. The workers discovered that part of our roof had hidden deterioration, which is no surprise as the roof was at the end of its life cycle, but this makes us all the happier that we are having roof and HVAC work done now!

As for the clergy/classroom addition, the steel work is nearly complete. In the picture below, you can see workers walking on the walkway that will connect our current building to the new clergy suite. If you have been in the clergy conference room in the past month, you noticed a new door to the outside that was installed (and was decorated by signs that read "Do not open!"). This door leads to the walkway that is shown below. For those of you who have been so curious (like me) about where this door leads, now you know! The clergy conference room will undergo construction as well, so ultimately the walkway will connect to staff offices, but that's for another update letter.

The most exciting news of the week was the arrival of the piece shown below. It is the top of the new Small Sanctuary, and it means that steel work on that part of the building will be starting in the next few weeks. I can't wait to see that structure come together, can you?
