

Weekly Update 5.28.2020

Reyna Pratt, Chair of the Building Project Task Force, provides our updates as construction progresses.

Do you remember the pictures from last week, where we showed how the old carpet in the sanctuary had been ripped out? Well, in one short week, the new carpet has been installed, and it looks fabulous. (Reminder – there will be no more drinking coffee in the sanctuary, right?) Here's a picture of Cantor Rhodes' son enjoying the refreshed space.

The work continues everywhere, but here are some updates about how the building looks from the outside. The view below is of the back of the small sanctuary, as if you were standing on the terrace. The big opening to the left is the view into the small sanctuary. To the right, you can see the doors that leads to the reception hall immediately outside the small sanctuary.

In the picture below, you can see that the construction team is close to being finished with the exterior of the clergy/classroom addition and the walkway that connects the new clergy suite to former clergy conference room. It looks sharp, don't you think?

We remain incredibly grateful that the construction team is allowed to work, recognizing that this can change at a moment's notice. We continue to hope for the best and will keep you posted, of course.
