

6.18.2020 Weekly Update

Reyna Pratt, Chair of the Building Project Task Force, provides our updates as construction progresses.

Today's update is about windows, specifically the windows into and near our new small sanctuary. Here's a rendering to show what it will (generally) look like in just a few months:

Looking at the rendering, on the right, at the windows that are just behind where the two women are standing. Those are windows/doors that fold back and will allow us to have easy access to the terrace. Below is a picture taken from the terrace, looking into the small sanctuary.

The picture above was taken in the reception hall, looking out toward the parking lot. If the photographer had turned 180 degrees, she would have been able to look out windows (and a door) at the end of the reception hall. The picture below shows those windows from the outside (and if you look really closely, you can also see the door).

The building team and I are looking forward to the day when you can see these windows and views for yourself! As always, please reach out if you have any questions: bptf@templerodefshalom.org
