

Hi everyone,

We are pleased to share that Temple Rodef Shalom will soon be resuming in-person indoor gatherings as well as expanding capacity for outdoor gatherings taking place at the temple. While we are all eager to return pre-pandemic programming, we ask for your continued patience as it will take time to fully return to the vigorous programming schedule we are all used to.

In-person gatherings will be small due to social distancing guidelines, and we will continue to follow risk-reduction measures including pre-registration, completion of health screening forms and masking. Meeting over a shared snack or meal will remain prohibited for the near future. A full list of available spaces and their capacities is available on our website at www.templerodefshalom.org/programming/. An FAQ of the most anticipated questions follow this short announcement and will be posted on the TRS website at www.templerodefshalom.org/programming/.

Our COVID-19 Advisory Group (CAG) will continue to meet monthly to evaluate the situation and its impact. This group, comprised of TRS members who are experts in a range of relevant public health, infectious disease, and medical fields are working hard to balance the health and safety of the congregation with our need to be together in sacred community. Our guidelines will evolve in response to ongoing changes made by Federal, State, and Local authorities- we will continue to assess our resources to ensure that in-person gatherings at TRS are safe and inclusive for all who wish to take part.

Please submit your programs for FY22 (July 1, 2021 – June 30, 2022) through our FY22 Calendar request form. This link, along with many other program resources, can be found and shared from our website at www.templerodefshalom.org/programming/.

If your committee has specific questions about an event or wants clarification on anything related to programming at TRS, please schedule an appointment with Nathan Smuckler.
